The mayor’s address

Dear investors and entrepreneurs!

Our city was founded in 1856 as the Ust-Zeysky military post on the Amur River, on the border with China. Today, Blagoveshchensk is the administrative, political, business, industrial, scientific, educational, and cultural center of the Amur Region. The city administration is doing everything possible to enhance the attractiveness of the business climate in the capital of the Amur region.

A unique geographical location on the border with the PRC, the presence of a customs checkpoint, and a developed transport infrastructure — an international airport, railway, road, and river transport — contribute to strengthening economic and social cooperation between Russia and China. The cross-border bridge and the cable car across the Amur River open up new opportunities for the development of tourism, trade, and industrial production.

Large investment projects are being implemented in Blagoveshchensk, and the city is open to new business partners. Our investment policy is aimed at supporting competitiveness, reducing administrative barriers, providing support for promising projects, and establishing effective cooperation with investors in all sectors.

We are ready for dialogue with the investment community.

We invite you to evaluate the investment potential of our city and the prospects for joint work.

The mayor of Blagoveshchensk city
Oleg Imameev

2005
